

Minimal Bodyweight Regimen

ROUTINE
1	TITAN Full shoulder and pressing day — all three delt heads, chest, and triceps, plus lower-leg work.	Pike push-ups → Push-ups → Bench dips → Lateral raises → Calf raises → Tibialis raises → Short run	Monday
2	IRONCLAD Vertical and horizontal pulling for a wide, strong back and biceps, plus posture and core.	Pull-ups → Inverted rows → Prone Y-T-W raises → Hanging knee raises → Side plank → Chin tucks	Tuesday
3	ODYSSEY A steady long effort to build your deep aerobic base and endurance.	Long run	Wednesday
4	COLOSSUS Ground-up lower-body armor: quads, glutes, hamstrings, adductors, calves, and shins.	Split squats → Single-leg glute bridge → Nordic hamstring curl → Copenhagen plank → Calf raises → Tibialis raises → Superman → Chin tucks	Thursday
5	SUMMIT A full-body peak touching every pattern, capped by a hill-power run.	Chin-ups → Push-ups → Lateral raises → Split squats → Single-leg glute bridge → Hanging knee raises → Superman → Hill run	Saturday rest each side

Stop about 2 reps before failure; run after lifting, never before; keep hard runs off leg day (Thu); rest on your off days (Fri, Sun), when muscle actually grows.

EXERCISES

PUSH

- Pike push-ups
Shoulders (front deltoids), triceps, upper trapezius
Hands shoulder-width, walk your feet in so your hips pike up into an upside-down V. Lower your head toward the floor between your hands, then press back up.
Cue: keep hips high and vertical, elbows pointing forward not flared; screw your hands into the floor.
Graduate: 3 sets of 12 full-range reps, 2 in reserve.
- Push-ups
Chest, front deltoids, triceps, serratus anterior
Hands slightly wider than shoulders, under your upper chest. Lower under control (~2s) until your chest nearly touches, then press up.
Cue: body in one straight line, no sagging hips — squeeze glutes and brace abs; push the floor away and spread your collarbones at the top.
Graduate: 3 sets of 20 clean reps.
- Bench dips
Lower chest, triceps
Hands shoulder-width on a chair edge behind you, fingers forward, legs out front. Bend your elbows to about 90 degrees and press up, leaning slightly forward.
Cue: keep shoulders pulled down away from your ears; stop if you feel a pinch.
Graduate: 3 sets of 12 full-depth reps, legs straight.
- Lateral raises (against a doorframe)
Side deltoids (shoulder width)
Stand tall beside a doorframe or sturdy vertical post, feet close to its base. Hold it low with your near hand, arm straight; lean your body out to the side onto that straight arm, then pull yourself upright driving from the side of the shoulder. Switch sides.
Cue: arm stays nearly straight, lead with the side of the shoulder not the neck; keep the shoulder down; lean further out to make it harder.
Graduate: 3 sets of 12 per side.

PULL

- Pull-ups and chin-ups
Lats, biceps, grip (a chin-up grip works the biceps more)
Palms away (pull-up) or facing you (chin-up). From a full hang, pull your chin over the bar and lower all the way.
Cue: no swinging; drive elbows to your ribs; at the bottom keep shoulders set, not shrugged up by your ears.
Graduate: 3 sets of 10 strict reps from a full hang.
- Inverted rows
Upper back, rear deltoids, biceps
Grip a low bar or table edge, hang underneath with body straight, heels on the floor. Pull your chest to the edge, elbows high and wide.
Cue: squeeze your shoulder blades together; the more horizontal your body, the harder. Don't let hips drop.
Graduate: 3 sets of 15 with feet flat and body straight.

POSTURE

- Prone Y-T-W raises
Upper back (lower/mid trapezius, rhomboids, rear deltoids)
Face down, arms overhead. Lift into a Y (arms at 45°), a T (straight out), then a W (elbows down by your ribs).
Cue: thumbs up; initiate from the shoulder blades not the neck — tuck the blades into your back pockets.
Graduate: 3 sets of 10 in each shape, slow.
- Superman
Lower back (erector spinae), glutes
Face down, arms out front. Lift chest, arms, and legs together a few inches, squeeze, then lower slowly.
Cue: reach long (lengthen, don't just crunch back), squeeze glutes, look at the floor so you don't strain your neck.
Graduate: 3 sets of 12 with a 2-second hold at the top.
- Chin tucks
Deep neck flexors; fixes forward-head posture
Sit or stand tall. Glide your chin straight back into a double chin without tilting up or down, then release.
Cue: imagine a string pulling the back of your skull up and back; gentle, light stretch at the base of the skull.
Graduate: 3 sets of 10 with a 5-second hold.

CORE

- Hanging knee raises
Abs, hip flexors, grip
Hang from the bar, shoulders pulled down. Raise your knees toward your chest and curl your pelvis up toward your ribs.
Cue: the pelvic curl is the ab work — roll the hips up; don't swing.
Graduate: 3 sets of 15 controlled reps.
- Side plank (held for time)
Obliques, deep core, side glutes
Elbow under shoulder, stack your feet, lift your hips into a straight line.
Cue: push the floor away and lift your hips high; don't sag or pike.
Graduate: 3 holds of 45 seconds per side.
- LEGS
- Split squats
Quads, glutes
Long stride, feet about hip-width apart side to side. Drop your back knee toward the floor and drive up through your front foot.
Cue: front knee over toes; push the floor down and back through the whole front foot; don't rest the back knee down.
Graduate: 3 sets of 15 per leg at full depth.
- Single-leg glute bridge
Glutes, hamstrings
On your back, one foot planted close to your butt, the other leg lifted. Drive your hips up to full lockout and lower slowly.
Cue: squeeze the glute hard at the top, ribs down, hips level; feel it in the glute, not the low back.
Graduate: 3 sets of 15 per leg to full hip lockout.
- Nordic hamstring curl
Hamstrings (the knee-bending action)
Kneel tall, heels anchored under a sofa, body straight from knees to head. Lower your torso slowly, using your hands to catch and push back up.
Cue: squeeze glutes to keep hips open (no bending at the waist); the slow lowering is what counts.
Graduate: 3 sets of 6 slow reps, controlling past halfway before your hands help.

- Copenhagen plank
Adductors (inner thigh), obliques
Side plank with your top leg resting on a chair or sofa, inner thigh pressing down; lift your bottom leg to meet it (easier: bend it under you).
Cue: crush the surface with your inner thigh, hips stacked and lifted. Your only adductor/groin work.
Graduate: 3 holds of 20 seconds per side, legs long.
- Calf raises (on a stair)
Calves (gastrocnemius and soleus)
Balls of your feet on a stair edge, heels hanging off. Let your heels drop below the step, then press up to full tiptoe; pause at the top and bottom.
Cue: push through the big toe, full stretch and squeeze; do one set with knees slightly bent to hit the soleus.
Graduate: 3 sets of 20 full-range reps.
- Tibialis raises (against a wall)
Shin (tibialis anterior)
Stand with your back against a wall, heels about a foot out. Keeping your heels down, lift your toes and forefoot up toward your shins, then lower slowly.
Cue: feel it in the front of the shin; full range balances all your calf and running work and protects the knees.
Graduate: 3 sets of 20 full-range reps.

RUNNING

- Short run
Legs, plus heart and lungs
An easy conversational pace, about 1.5 miles.
Cue: land under your hips with quick, light steps, running tall and relaxed.
Graduate: 1.5 miles in under about 14 minutes, still easy.
- Long run
Aerobic base
A slow, steady pace, about 3 miles; slower than your short run, finishing relaxed.
Cue: hold a nose-breathing pace, ego off — slower than feels natural is correct.
Graduate: 3 miles in under about 30 minutes.
- Hill run
Leg power, plus aerobic
A hilly route of about 1.5 miles. Up: short quick steps and a slight forward lean; down: easy jog or walk to recover.
Cue: run tall and push the ground behind you; drive the arms on the climbs.
Graduate: 1.5 miles of hills in under about 16 minutes.
